Chapter 1 by Fiona

You lie down in your bed. Not a worry, or care in the world. You've had fun all day, and you're very tired now. Getting under the covers, and shutting your eyes.

Suddenly you're waked up by the sound of whispers. You're fast asleep but in your mind, you're wide awake at this point. You get out of your bed, well what used to be your bed. Now it is a hard, dusty, old rectangle made of cement blocks. You stand up, in terribly back pain from the cement blocks. You walk farther in the room, only to see blackness.

"Great." you mutter. "I'm stuck in this hagged old room where beds are cement and i'm sure the walls are too." "Ugh" you sigh as you sit down on the dusty cement floor. "What a surprise. Cement." you say under you breath.

"Stand up" something whispers. "Great now i'm in the cement room with a crazy human losing it's mind." you murmur. "I said, get up" something whispered again, yet more strict. You start walking, even though you know there's going to be nothing waiting for you
